SURVIVORS OF AMERICAN SHIP LANDED

Twenty-Four Sailors From Steamship Dvinsk, Sunk by German Submarine, Picked Up Off Nova Scotia

By Associated Press)

Halifax, N. S., June 28.—A boat load of sailors from an American vessel sunk by a German submarine off the Atlantic coast was landed this morning by a fishing vessel at Sholburne, Nova Scotia, says a message from that port today.

The men were picked up 50 miles south of Seal Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. They had been drifting for eight days subsisting on a small quantity of bread and water.

The sailors, numbering 21, were from the steamer Dvinsk, a later message said. Previous reports of the Dvinsk, a British ship under American charter, said she was sunk June 18, 700 miles east of the Delaware Capes.

According to a Copenhagen Dispatch Moscow Has Been Captured by Gen. Kornilorff, Supported by German Troops—Lenine and Trotzky Have Fled

(By Associated Press)

London, June 28.—According to unconfirmed reports today the Bolsheviki Government in Moscow has been overthrown says a despatch from Copenhagen. Moscow the report adds has been captured by General Kornilorff, supported by German troops.

The Copenhagen newspapers, the despatch adds, give prominence to a Berlin despatch quoting a paper of that city saying it has received a message from its Petrograd correspondence reading as follows: "It is believed here that the Bolsheviki Government will soon be overthrown, and that Kerensky is the man of the future in Russia."

SILK STOCKINGS

LONG WEAR FROM GOOD SILK STOCKINGS is assured if you follow these simple directions:

OWN SEVERAL PAIRS, wear them in rotation. Each night rinse them with tepid water and ivory soap the pair worn that day. After rinsing out all the soap, hang them to dry indoors, where strong sunlight will not strike them, thereby preventing the colors from fading. The chief enemy of silk stocking is soil from perspiration and dust—also leather stains from shoe linings. Remove these each night after wearing, by the brief washing suggested, and you eliminate the likelihood of worn spots or broken threads appearing unduly early.

Black and White Silk Stockings 75c, 87c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.89, $2.00
Quite a line of Colors in Fibre Silk at 59c
The much wanted Dark Mahogany Shade at ..... 59c, $1.00 and $1.25

MOB WRECKS ROMAN PALACE OF KAISER

Rome, June 28.—During a celebration today of the Italian success on the Piave a crowd rushed to Capitoline Hill and burst into the Caffarelli Palace, which before the war was the German embassy and is still German property. All portraits of the Kaiser were torn down and the Italian flag was hoisted on the building.

The fact that the palace is still owned by Germany has been the cause of great indignation among the people of Rome, who since the entry of Italy into the war have demanded that Capitoline hill be freed from its "Teutonic stain."

The enraged people overturned the throne placed there by the German Emperor himself, tore some of the furniture to pieces and after pulling down the portraits of the Emperor and raising the Italian flag paraded the main streets of the city with fragments of the figure as trophies.

EXETER

Exeter, June 28.—The local committee on the war saving stamp drive has arranged for speakers in the different Rockingham county towns in this section for tonight as follows:

Exeter, Principal Lewis Perry of the Phillips-Exeter academy, and Rev. Arthur Y. Dimock of Camp Devens; Newfields, County Treasurer Stewart E. Rowe; Atkinson and Hampstead, Prof. James A. Tufts; Sandown, Dr. S. Willis Kemp, principal of Sanborn seminary of Kingston; Kensington and East Kingston, Representative Samuel K. Bell of Exeter.

Ambassador James W. Gerard as he appears in "My Four Years in Germany," at Colonial, July 3d.

Ralph Villars, son of Mrs. Hattie L. Villars of Hall place, writes home from France that he has a German revolver and intends to send it home as a souvenir of the war. This was in a letter of June 1.

In a letter dated May 21, he states that an aeroplane was shot down near them, and that it contained a civilian passenger, who had a French pass, and it was the opinion that it was the intention to drop him somewhere as a spy. "They fell from such a height," he states, "that if one went to pick them up, it would be like handling a sack of apples, as they were all mushed up. There was a drafted guy who was put in the engineers department, he says, and his work was to string barbed wire entanglements. The sergeant sent him to bring some of it up to the spot. He was one of those lads who had never done any work, and wanted to know what in the world they did with barbed wire. "Why," said the sergeant, "you big fool, to make a sweater for the Kaiser!" "Have you met some of those guys who have been sent back to the states? Some of them have never heard a gun fired and they say they have been on the firing lines. There was a lad who was sent home, and we saw in the papers that he was deafened from the noise of the big guns. He never heard a gun fired. I wish some of those guys would come back and take my place, and then they might have something to talk about. When you are riding on a ration cart, and a German sniper picks off the fellow who is sitting next to you, and you have to snatch the reins and make the horse run like—to get out of the way, then possibly I might be able to thank them for not picking me off. But they don't get me if I know anything about it, and, moreover, when I get a chance to get one of them they don't know anything about it."

Through the firm of Sleeper and Brown the case of Stephen J. Gorski of Exeter vs the Boston and Maine railroad, was settled Thursday with judgment for the plaintiff of $250. Gorski was injured last year at the Main street crossing, when he was struck by an engine, and had one of his ribs cracked. The counsel for the defendant was Albert R. Hatch of Portsmouth and the firm of Hughes and Doe of Dover.

The case of George Fairbrother of Londonderry, who was charged with keeping a disorderly house, was disposed of Thursday morning by County Solicitor William H. Sleeper at the superior court at Portsmouth, when the defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of court and given a six months suspended jail sentence during good behavior. The Fairbrother case is an appeal from the Exeter municipal court, which case was heard last August. Fairbrother was represented by Doyle and Lucier of Nashua, and Edward B. Weston of Derry.

The draftees who were sent to Camp Devens this morning from the second Rockingham county district, arrived in town Thursday and all reported at the draft board headquarters in the evening. Twenty-eight left for the camp this morning.

Harry F. Green, who went to Fort Slocum, N. Y., with the draftees on June 1, writes to friends that he expects soon to leave there for Camp Jackson, S. C. He states that all is well and he is enjoying army life.

Manchester, June 28.—Eleven well-known Manchester men were arraigned in the Municipal Court Thursday charged with either keeping liquor for sale or with violation of the pure food law, the for sale cargo having reference to spruce and root beer, champagne cider, straight cider and cherry cordial. Eight of them, including one city official, Alderman James J. Hogan, were sentenced to serve 30 days each in the county house of correction and to pay a fine of $100 and costs, from which each appealed and furnished bail of $400.

Those who were fined $100 and costs and sent to prison were Harry E. Knapp, James J. Hogan, Fred Russell, Joseph H. Senneville, Canine Vine, Joseph Masse, Carl Anderson, Alphonse Dimoneau.

In addition Russell, Simoneau, Joseph G. Pulante, Napoleon J. Pichette and Daniel Daoust were charged with violations of the pure food law and were fined $5 and costs, which were suspended.

Dover, June 28.—The number of enemy alien German women in this city who registered at the police station, under the proclamation issued by the President numbered but three. Hence, the results show that there are but four alien women in this section of Strafford county.

She has resided in Marblehead for about six years.

SENATE VOTE ON SUFFRAGE TO BE CLOSE

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 27—Woman suffragists and anti-suffragists lined up in the Senate today for the climax of the many year's fight for the submission of a woman suffrage constitutional amendment to the states. It appeared that the vote would be very close.

The suffragists expressed confidence of getting more than the necessary two-thirds; the anti-suffragists appeared equally confident it could not be mustered.

President Wilson long ago had given his support to the amendment, and the suffragists claimed today that everything possible was being done to bring faltering senators into line.

The usual speechmaking started off the consideration of the amendment but there was a bar to final action in sight in the parliamentary status of the army bill. Under ordinary procedure the army bill would take the right of way, but the suffragists hoped they could get it laid aside and go on to a vote on their amendment, which already had passed the House.

Senator Poindexter declared that in western states woman suffrage had demonstrated "not only its justice, but its value to women and the entire community."

Senator Walsh of Montana said the last Democratic national platform did not bind Democrats either for or against the Susan B. Anthony amendment, but declared for conferring of the franchise on women by the states.

Senator Thompson of Kansas spoke of women doing men's work in the war and declared it an outrage to deny them suffrage.

HONOR LETTERS FOR IRISH VOLUNTEERS

(By Associated Press)

Dublin, June 27—One of the latest suggestions to assist recruiting in Ireland is that the government confer on every Irishman who has fought the right to bear letters after his name—preferably an additional syllable to be attached to the name—denoting service in the army or navy. The name with its suffix or honor would thereafter be borne by him and his descendants.

7 CENT CIGAR A LUXURY

(By Associated Press)

Paris, June 27—A seven-cent cigar is a luxury and a six-cent smoke a necessity in the opinion of the French under secretary of state. The secretary suggests a ration scheme should apply only to the sale of the cheaper grades of tobacco, cigarettes and cigars and not to those classed as luxuries. He would give no smokers' cards to women, although the women munition workers have become great smokers.

CONSCRIPTION FOR IRELAND

London, June 27—When his proclamation calling for Irish volunteers was issued there was no idea of abandoning the possibility of conscription, Viscount French, the Lord Lieutenant, declared in a speech Wednesday at Belfast.

If the military requirements set forth in the proclamation were not satisfied voluntarily, he added, the Government must deal with the situation.

Fifty thousand men would be an asset in the interests of the Army rather than Ireland's contribution, but if compulsion had to be resorted to the number would be regulated by population.

"I must say plainly and emphatically," he asserted, "that the Government in Ireland will carry out its duty in this respect unflinchingly, without fear or favor, and in the face of whatever opposition—whether of criticism or of actual force—may unfortunately be thrown in its attempted."

COL. LEAVITT HONORED

The entire clerical force of the Supply Department at the local yard signed and presented a petition to the President of the New Co-operative store corporation recommending and urging the selection of Colonel John W. Leavitt to head the patriotic parade incidental to the Flag raising in front of the co-operative store on Saturday afternoon, this week. The recommendation contained many pleasing and stirring references in Col. Leavitt's career. His long and meritorious service of continuous employment in the Supply Department; the unusual interest he has always taken in matters pertaining to the welfare of his fellow employees; his well known generosity in deserving cases; his kind and loving disposition and solicitation for mankind has endeared him to all fortunate enough to enjoy his intimate acquaintance. Col. Leavitt's distinguished military service in the early sixties was reviewed, showing a record for daring and bravery that any man might well be proud of. Of all the older boys the Col. is the youngest. Stately in carriage, with the step of a boy, he is as anxious today to shoulder a gun as he was in the long and bloody days of the rebellion. Mr. Leavitt is the right kind of a patriot every minute of the day and every day in the year and in every year of his long and useful career, and knowing his great loyalty, believing him eminently fitted by virtue of experience, military service and reverent loyalty, his fellow employees requested he be assigned to an honorable position in the proposed parade and flag raising on Saturday. In conclusion let it be said that his fellow workmen are ever ready to honor him.

NEW AMERICAN HOSPITAL AT SALISBURY

Southampton, Eng., June 28.—Work has already been started on the largest American military hospital in Great Britain. It will be located at Salisbury, six miles from Southampton, and will accommodate 3000 wounded Americans from the west front.

The site is a magnificent country estate of nearly 200 acres, which the Red Cross has purchased. The old manor house will be the central building of the new hospital and around it the Red Cross is building nearly 10 acres of buildings and wards.

The central corridor of the new hospital will be 1000 feet long, opening on either side into wards, each one of which will accommodate from 60 to 100 patients.

The site is one of the most beautiful in Southern England. It overlooks Southampton Harbor and the Isle of Wight, and has a frontage of half a mile on the water, with good fishing and boating facilities. From the tower of the manor house one has an unobstructed view for 20 miles in all directions.

The property includes a large amount of woodland, where American lumbermen are already felling trees to provide heavy timber for the new buildings.

The contracts provide for opening the hospital with the first 400 beds in six weeks. The institution will have its own electric plant, water supply, kitchen gardens, dairy, chickens and pigs. The construction is going on under the supervision of Capt. Harper Sibley, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce of Rochester, N. Y.

SPECIAL PREPARATIONS FOR SCENES IN GERARD FILM

"The climax of "My Four Years in Germany," the screen version of Ambassador Gerard's story of his experiences at the court of the Kaiser, is a most fitting one, and one for which extraordinary preparations were made.

Those who have seen the film will never forget the last reel, in which the German Emperor gets his answer to the slur he has put upon the United States by saying that "The Americans won't fight." "They won't, eh?" is Mr. Gerard's reply, and then comes scene after scene showing American troops in training and fighting.

These scenes were filmed at Camp Upton, Long Island, with the permission of the government. Battle scenes were filmed in which the boys went through special review and duplicated the western battlefront scenes in France, and they are shown going "over the top" as America's answer to Germany's taunt. The work at Camp Upton was done under personal direction of William Nigh and in the presence of Mr. Gerard.

"Without the co-operation of the officials of the government and the heads of the camps, such scenes would be impossible to take," said Mr. Nigh. "Money alone could not duplicate them, could never reproduce the stern reality, the tremendous enthusiasm, the realism in the scenes that will stir even the most blase audience to a frenzy. It comes as a fitting finale to a picture that is not only timely but of vital interest and importance to every American everywhere."

This wonderful motion picture will be seen at the Colonial Theatre beginning next Wednesday, July 3rd.

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S DEATH

New York, June 28.—The district attorney has started an investigation into the mysterious death by gas poisoning of 12-year-old Helen Schnitzer, schoolgirl, found dead in her father's home a few days after her long tresses had been clipped from her head.

Schnitzer explained that he locked his daughter in her room, fearing she would be kidnapped.

Detectives gave up the suicide theory as soon as they discovered the gas in the girl's room could be turned on through a transom in an adjoining room.

The police blotter contained the name of an employee at the Newington shipyard who was arrested on the charge of his wife in Boston for non support.

ALLIES NAVY WOULD EMERGE VICTORIOUS

Nagoya, Japan, June 28.—A Japanese policy of strong adherence to the Anglo-Japanese alliance, supported by the agreement with the United States, was enunciated the other day by Viscount Takaaki Kato, leader of the Constitutional party, which is opposed to the present government. Addressing a general meeting of the Constitutionalist he declared it was time that Japan had a stable cabinet in order to put such a policy into effect. Kato was formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The speech is of interest because of the existing reports that the Terauchi cabinet will resign before the summer has passed, though the fact is to be borne in mind that it represents the dictum of a party which seeks to return to power.

Viscount Kato praised the Entente allies for the way in which they had met the military emergency created by Germany's long preparation for war. He continued:

"It is probable that Germany will fail in realizing her ambitions in the present war, but if she should by any chance gain the final victory what would be the position of the allies? Should things come to such a pass France would of course be placed in the most difficult position, and Britain also would have to withdraw her troops from the continent, and devote her whole energies to the defence of her own country.

"In such case, the warfare will pass from land to sea, and when due consideration is given to the very powerful British navy, supported by the huge navy of America, it is a foregone conclusion that the allies' navies would emerge victorious."

GERMANS RELY ON THE LIGHT MACHINE GUN

With the American Army in France June 28.—The simplifying of ordance and unburdening of shock troops seem to be two of the principal points upon which the German effort has concentrated in the present offensive. They have employed no new arms or munition, but have sought to increase the intensity of fire by larger number of already existing arms and munitions. They consider that they have found one solution of this problem in the light machine gun, which can be carried and operated by one man.

Each company, today organized into three sections, has six machine-guns, two to each section.

The light machine gun is said to embrace the mobility and the qualities of the heavy Maxim machine-gun. The tripod is substituted by a simpler and much lighter support.

Situated as a rule at the wings of the section, overlooking the rifles, this arm has for its purpose:—

1—In an attack to force the enemy to dig in during the advance of the infantry and to reduce or neutralize the machine-gun nests or strong points of the enemy.

2—On the defense, to guard the flanks in the front line and break up counter attacks.

STRANGE CRAFT OFF VIRGINIA

(By Associated Press)

An Atlantic Port, June 27—The master of an incoming vessel at this port today reported that four days ago he encountered a strange craft 150 miles southeast of the Virginia Capes which he believed to be a German raider.

He said his ship was trailed for some time by the stranger, which kept just beyond gun range. The description of the vessel given by the master corresponds closely with the description brought here yesterday of a supposed German raider or submarine "mother ship" operating in the vicinity of the Bermuda islands.

Today's report however, varies in that the strange vessel is said to be a low lying craft, at distance having the appearance of a submarine.

The new report caused shipping men here to speculate as to the possibility of two raiders being on this side of the Atlantic, but it is thought probable the same vessel was sighted.

A Program That Can Wait.

It is fully early to be talking about what is to be done in this, that and the other direction after the war, but there are those, in official circles and out, who seem unable to refrain from it. There has been much speculation about the trade war which many believe will follow the conflict of arms, about the "rehabilitation" of crippled soldiers to enable them to earn their living, and all that sort of thing, and now comes a proposition to provide openings for returned soldiers as pioneers in the western wilds.

It is pointed out that there are in the country millions of acres of swamp and stump lands and lands that could be made productive by irrigation on which some of the veterans might like to settle. It is claimed that many of them will be filled with a new spirit of adventure, that they will not be willing to settle down to the old conditions, and that by settling on these lands and making homes they would not only be doing a good thing for themselves and their families, but adding materially to the wealth of the country. Already an appropriation of $2,000,000 has been asked for to make a "survey" of the situation.

But it may be questioned whether such a proposition should be entertained at this time. The government's first duty and business is to win the war, and every dollar and every effort should be directed to that end until the task is completed. Compared with the war appropriations that are being made $2,000,000 is an insignificant sum, but at a time when the people are being solicited for financial assistance as they are today it might be better to put this money to war uses rather than invest it in the "survey" of any pioneering scheme.

Returned soldiers who want to spend their lives on the land will have no difficulties in finding opportunities much nearer home and the old associations than the lands in question. It is probable that very few of them will want to take up the life of pioneers. In the older parts of the country are hundreds and thousands of run-down or abandoned farms that offer a much better opening than the vast areas of swamp and stump lands on which it is proposed to establish veterans on their return from Europe.

It must not be forgotten that very little of the land in this country, even in the most favored sections, is tilled to capacity. For the most part we have been merely scratching the surface, and on much of the best land and that which is best cultivated it would be possible to double and even triple the production.

In view of these facts, and the fact that most of the returned soldiers are going to be able to take care of themselves without any paternal oversight on the part of the government, it would be wise to let all questions of this character rest until the conclusion of the war.

Governor Milliken of Maine has set his heart upon reform and has appointed fifty special state constables to clean up the highways and byways, and to see that order reigns at the summer resorts on Sundays. As a result there is consternation at Old Orchard and other places where in the past Sunday has been the best business day in the week.

The survivors of 70 marines who have lost their lives in the service will receive more than $500,000 from the government in the form of insurance. Never in the history of the world was such provision made for soldiers and their dependents as is being made by the United States in this war.

Boston "bootleggers" are coming to grief. More than fifty have been arrested for furnishing liquor to soldiers, and thirty-eight have been sent to prison for one year by the United States District Court. That is business, and the right kind of business.

Reports of preparations for the celebration of the coming Fourth indicate that there are going to be plenty of parades in spite of the opinion of a leading New York newspaper that there has been enough of this form of diversion and appeal.

The sinking off the Atlantic coast of a returning transport on which there were no troops constitutes an insignificant offset to the reverses the forces of Kaiserdom have suffered of late.

The Allies are learning that America can get troops to France pretty fast when it sets itself about it. And Germany is in a fair way to learn the same lesson.

The Austrians are attributing their defeat to high water and bad weather. But that was not the only trouble. There were other and more important causes.

HAS NOTHING ON SARETTE

The Manchester Mirror has the following on Dave Sarette, the former Elk's pitcher:

"Iron Man" McGinnity never had anything on Sarette. How he stands for it is unwritten history. Nearly every game he's pitched this season he should have won, but his field throw it away at the psychological moment.

HIGH STREET RESIDENT

Too Much Speed.

Eliot, Me., June 28, 1918

Editor:

It is apparent that the selectmen of this town have got to do something more than nail up signs to check the speed of automobiles and motorcycles.

The posting of signs reading: "Speed limit 15 miles per hour" seems to be a joke with the speedsters and instead of decreasing the speed, they are running wild through the town at a rate of 50 to 60 miles per hour.

Children have to be guarded by some one if they are away from their homes and the next thing in the way of protection the parents will find it necessary to tie them to a tree or the fence.

On Saturday noon it is dangerous to cross the highways on account of navy yard workmen on motorcycles and in automobiles running towards Dover. They have no conception of speed and the right of the public.

What good are the signs if the law is not enforced? It's time the town officials realized this danger before it is too late and the loss of life occurs.

Sunset League Tonight.

Friday—K. of C. vs. Y. M. C. A.

The Atlantic won from the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night 5 to 2 all the runs scored being unearned.

Murray was in the box for the winners and pitched a heady game.

The Y. M. C. A. presented a strengthened team with several new players from the navy yard. Hanson at third base played a fine game while McPhee deserved better support.

The Atlantic scored their first run in the second when Kincaid walked stole second and third, and scored on Hurley's wild throw.

In the fourth two more were added Kincaid fanned, Murray walked and stole second and third, Robinson walked and immediately stole second. O'Brien hit to McPhee and Murray was run down, Hanson getting the put out. Cavanaugh dropped a Texas leaguer over third scoring Robinson, and O'Brien also scored when Sullivan failed to recover Cavanaugh's hit.

Another brace of runs were added in the fifth when Pilgrim beat out hit to Thompson, Pilgrim stole second but when trying to score on Silva's single to left was out at the plate on a beautiful throw by Sullivan. Swasey reached first on Hanson's wild throw but was tagged out later when he attempted to steal second base with Silva on the sack, Silva went to third on Thompson's bunting or Kincaid's grounder, Kincaid stole second, Murray hit to Powers and Whittle made a bad muff of the throw allowing Silva to tally, Whittle also fell asleep and forgot to throw the ball to the plate, Kincaid tallying.

The Y. M. C. A. scored in the third. Cragen reached second on Pilgrim's wild throw to Kincaid, Currier replaced Cragen and scored on Hanson's single to center.

McPhee might have had such dreams but he struck out twice when a hit would have done damage.

The other run was made in the fifth when Currier walked, stole second, went to third on Murray's wild pitch and scored on Thompson's double over O'Brien's head.

Fielding features were contributed by Whittle and Thompson and Murray, Robinson and Kincaid in two fast double plays in the first inning. Sullivan's peg to the plate in the fifth nailing Pilgrim also was noteworthy.

Whittle went to sleep with the ball in the fifth allowing Kincaid to score.

KERENSKY TO VISIT FRANCE FIRST

London, June 28.—Alexander F. Kerensky, the short-lived dictator of Russia, whose sudden appearance before the British labor conference yesterday startled not only the laboring men but the British public generally, looks toward America as the goal of his journey. He hopes to be received there as the spokesman of his country men. He wants to plead the cause of the new born Russian democracy to the great republic overseas.

Today he has promised to address the labor conference. Within a few days he will go to France and thence to the United States. His friends say he does not like the word "intervention" in relation to allied aid for Russia, but prefers the phrase "help and reconstruction."

How he escaped from Russia and how his comrades shielded him from the Bolsheviki cannot be told until the time comes. That probably will be when they will not be endangered by the revelations. At present he is evading all uninvited visitors. Kerensky's sudden arrival probably caused more excitement in newspaper offices and among book publishers, photographers, and motion picture agents than had occurred in Europe since Dr. Cook appeared in Copenhagen with equally startling suddenness from out of the northern mists.

No conjurer pulling a white rabbit from a silk hat ever startled an audience of wild-eyed children more thoroughly than Arthur Henderson surprised the labor conference yesterday in introducing Kerensky. Amazement pervaded the meeting hall, to be followed by cheers as a slight, youthful, dark-haired and smooth-shaven, foreign-looking man stood, beside Mr. Henderson.

Kerensky told the labor delegates that the Russian people, fighting against tyranny now, would soon take part again in the lists against the Central Powers.

The situation in Russia today he summarized as follows: "One can break the Russian people but one can not subdue it."

The morning newspapers devote much space in their news columns to Kerensky's appearance in London, but only two of them comment editorially upon the event.

One of these, the Daily Express, describes the ex-Russian Premier as a man of words, not of action. Few men it says, have made a more picturesque or a more pitiable mark on the history of the war.

"The democracy of Russia," continues the Express, "needed a voice to become effective. Kerensky could have given it voice, but failed, and the diplomacy which was based on faith in him failed, too. The Allies made the mistake of appealing to Kerensky when they should have upheld the authority of the Constituent Assembly."

The Graphic, on the other hand, sees in Kerensky's appearance in London a welcome sign of possible fresh developments in Russia. It urges Allied action in Russia through Siberia, expressing the belief that this is a policy which President Wilson has recently come to accept.

TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT TRENCH FEVER

Paris, June 21.—Steps have been taken to prevent the breeding of lice in the zones of the allied armies, in order to stop the spread of trench fever. This malady has taken first rank in incapacitating the soldiers of modern armies, as typhoid and malaria fevers did in other wars.

The fight against the louse results from the finding of the American Research Committee headed by Major H. P. Strong which concurred with the medical authorities of the British armies in convicting the louse of transmitting trench fever to soldiers.

"Delousing units" have been formed and a system of disinfecting the clothing of men returning from the trenches has been put in operation.

SPORT NEWS

Philadelphia, June 27—Captain T. K. Lee of the U. S. A. who has been assigned to the Small Arms Firing School at Camp Perry, Ohio as instructor is known as "Champion all round shot of the world." Although the Captain who is thirty years old began shooting eighteen years ago, it was not until 1912 that he took part in official competition. Since that time that time, however, except in 1916, when he did not compete, he has won the annual rifle championship of the United States. Three times he made the full possible score of 2,000 and on two other occasions he made 1,000 each time, making a total of 3998 out of a possible 10,000 in five competions.

New York, June 27—James J. Coffey the Roscommon heavy weight pugilist has received his final papers as a full fledged citizens of the United States from Justice Lehan of the Supremen Court. Coffey who was born near Roscommon Ireland joined the New York Naval Reserves some months ago and since during the lun-form has appeared at Red Cross benefit boxing tournaments on several occasions.

New York, June 27—One of the features on the Independence Day program of track meet at Celtic Park, Long Island City, will be the appearance of John Pupreell, Ireland's Champion hurdler. Purcell who hails from the Marble City is here on a furlough having fought in the French trenches as a member of a British regiment almost since the begining of the war. The Kilkenny athletic, who will be seen in the hurdle events, distinguished himself as a championship timber topper prior to his enlistment when he earned winning brackets in several hurdle contests against the best amen in the British Isles.

New York, June 27—During the months of ugust and September next several world's championship bicycle races will be decided at the Philadelphia and Boston tracks. Heretofore these contests were staged in the great French motor drome, Pare des Princes Paris. Owing to war conditions in Europe, the International Cycling Association has given the National Cycling Association of this country the right to hold these events. The sixty-five and one hundred kilometer motor race world's championships have been awarded to Philadelphia and they will take place over the Point Breeze motor drome track. Arrangments are going made owing to many entries, to decide these races in trial, semi-final and final heats. The twenty-third and forty mile world's championship have been awarded to Boston and there will be no conflict in the dates selected by the officials in either city.

New York, June 27—The high cost of baseball, viewed from the standpoint of the magnate, will have another item added to the steadily mounting bill when the increased railroad fares go into effect during the present month. It has been estimated that the expense of transporting the major league club teams about the country has increased fully a quarter of a million dollars this season as compared with the rates prevailing a year or two ago.

Veteran big league baseball officials state that the average mileage of such a club will equal about 10,000 miles, each year when figured over a period of several seasons. Some clubs will run above these figures and others below, according to the manner in which the schedule breaks for them from year to year, but an average of 10,000 miles can be counted upon as about correct for the purpose of estimating increases.

In ante-bellum days the rate throughout the various states included for a major league circuit, averaged about two and one-half cents per mile per member of the party. This gave a total of about 2,500 per player per season with several hundred dollars additional for Pullman reservations during long trips. This particular item was offset to some extent by the saving in hotel bills when night jumps were made.

Under the new ruling the rate will increase almost a cent a mile, in addition to the regular charges for special reservation and the travel war tax. If all the travelling is done in Pullmans the rate will be three and a half cents per mile or a total for a full season of $3,500 per player plus a war tax of eight per cent, equal to $280. To this will have to be added the regular extra charge for sleeping berths or chairs where long night or day trips are made. Provided the increase rates did not go into effect until the middle of the baseball season the additional expense would be approximately $500 per player and for each club about $10,000, based upon an average of twenty to a party. With sixteen clubs in the two major leagues the total would be over $160,000.

While major leagues can probably meet this additional expense without serious financial setback, the same cannot be said of the various minor organization. It will undoubtedly put heavily into the narrow margin which now marks the difference between profit and loss in the minor league club officials all over the country. The Pacific Coast League will try the experiment of transporting players from city to city by automobile and motorcars while trolley service has been suggested in the east as a means of keeping down travelling expenses.

The sensational batting feat of "Babe" Ruth, of the Boston merican League team, in driving out four home runs in four consecutive games recently, has called attention anew to the remarkable hitting ability of the Red Sox twirler. Since the opening of the season Ruth has scored seven home runs in addition to several made in inter-league games played between big circuit clubs previous to the opening schedule pennant race. At present Ruth is leading the American League with a batting average of over .400.

Four runs in four days is a big league record in recent years at least but Ruth will have to continue his cannonading with reasonable regularity if he is to equal or surpass the home run records for a full season.

The record is held by Ed. Williamson, who while a member of the Chicago Nationals in 1883, hammered out twenty-seven. "Cactus" Craveth, while with the Philadelphia Nationals in 1915, scored twenty-four home runs which is considered the modern record. Among the old timers Robert Lowe, Ed. Delahanty and Dan Brouthers are all credited with four home runs in one game while Lowe holds the particular distinction or scoring two of his in one inning.

Boston, June 27—Harry Barwise, former record holder in the running high jump and a member of the American Olympic Games teams which competed at Stockholm in 1912 has been called to service. Barwise is expected to report to amp Dix during the closing days of the month. His home is at Rawckfield, Mass.

Hartford, June 27—Two of the New England college baseball teams made remarkable records during the season just closed notwithstanding war-time handicap. The Yale nine won all nine teen games played due in part t othe clever pitching of Talbott. The Holy Cross team with a much more extensive schedule won twenty-five games out of twenty-nine played. Three games were lost and another ended in a tie due to darkness. Jesse Burkett former big league player was coach and started the team with but four veterans.

OIL STOVES

Some warm day when the kitchen is hot, the children fussy and you have lots of cooking to do you will wish for a blue flame oil stove. They are selling rapidly and although we have a good supply we would advise you to make an early selection. Then when that day comes the stove will be yours to use.

Save your wood and coal—if you are fortunate enough to be the owner of such valuables—for the cooler days, and use kerosene during the summer.

We have the stoves with one, two, three and four burners, and one and two burner ovens. The cabinet, although not a necessity, is important. It adds greatly to the appearance of the stove, prevents the kitchen wall from becoming soiled, provides a convenient warming shelf for plates and keeps the food warm. It also prevents drafts and currents of air from affecting the heat in the operation of cooking.

SHATTUCK SHIP YARD NOTES

There are now 100 calkers, with every man doing his best to complete the work for the July fourth launching.

WILL GIVE AN ANCHOR TO SHIP

First Vessel to Be Launched at Newington Will Receive Gift From Mrs. Frank W. Rollins.

The first of the Emergency Fleet Corporation's steamships to be launched from the Newington shipyard on July 4 will carry an anchor donated by Mrs. Frank W. Rollins of Concord.

This anchor, which is unusually large and heavy, was raised from the ocean bed by the late Governor Rollins while cruising on his yacht several years ago and taken to Concord where it has served as an ornament on the grounds of the Rollins residence on North State street.

The sudden expansion of the Shipping Board's Emergency fleet has created a great scarcity of ship fittings and equipment, particularly anchors and anchor chains. Learning of this Mrs. Rollins offered the anchor to the government, which gladly accepted it.
